II John

This epistle is possibly written to a certain Christian woman. John counsels this “lady” to beware of false teachers. If anyone brings the idea that Christ is not God, “receive him not into your house,” lest you become partaker of his evil deeds. “Abide in the truth,” especially the truth of the incarnation. John urges obedience to God’s commands, and a practice of love to the brethren.

Meditation

The Excellencies of Christ

To Christ, the Lord, let every tongue
Its noblest tribute bring;
When He's the subject of the song,
Who can refuse to sing?

He saw me plunged in deep distress,
He flew to my relief;
For me He bore the shameful cross,
And carried all my grief.

Survey the beauties of His face,
And on His glories dwell;
Think of the wonders of His grace,
And all His triumphs tell.

His hand a thousand blessings pours
Upon my guilty head;
His presence glids my darkest hours,
And guards my sleeping bed.

Majestic sweetness sits enthroned
Upon His awful brow;
His head with radiant glories crowned,
His lips with grace o'erflow.

To Him I owe my life, and breath,
And all the joys I have;
He makes me triumph over death,
And saves me from the grave.

No mortal can with Him compare,
Among the sons of men;
Fairer He is than all the fair,
That fill the heavenly train.

To heaven, the place of His abode,
He brings my weary feet;
Shows me the glories of my God,
And makes my joys complete

Since from His bounty I receive
Such proofs of love divine,
Had I a thousand hearts to give,
Lord, they should all be Thine!
